(x) Kushan Empire, 'Samudra' (c. 350-375), gold Dinar, 7.58g, nimbate king standing left, making offerings at a small altar left, holding ribboned standard right, trident above altar left, letter pu by altar, sa mu dra under arm right, ga da kha ra far right, rev. Ardoksho enthroned facing (Göbl 611; MAC 3599-3601), about very fine, an unusual and intriguing coin. This coin may have been issued by an usurper who is unknown apart from his coins. It could also, as Mitchiner suggests, have been struck in tribute of their neighbour, Samudragupta, or to be circulated in areas with links to Gupta rule. Göbl argued for a field commander striking on behalf of Samudragupta in a region which had not yet been incorporated into the Gupta realm, but where Kushan dinars would have been the accepted currency. It has several stylistic incongruities compared with traditional Kushan numismatic iconography, particularly in reference to the kingly figure who is presented in the style of Gupta kings. Subject to 5% tax on Hammer Price in addition to 20% VAT on Buyer's Premium.

Estimate

Lot 8350

(x) Chittagong / Bengal Sultans, in the name of Ghiyath al-Din Mahmud, attributed to governor Chandila Raza named as Thandala Shah (c.1542-48), Tanka, 10.5g, mintless type, AH949, legend within a grid of nine squares both sides (G & G B. 1022 ; Mitch. Bangladesh & Arakan 263-4; Ali, History of the Muslims of Bengal, Vol 1, p.238), toned extremely fine and very rare (Tikkanen 102) The issuer of this attractive and enigmatic coin is still uncertain. Goron notes that the legend has never been convincingly read, and it is stylistically unlike other coins of Chittagong or Bengal. Tikkanen refers to Ali, M. M., History of the Muslims of Bengal, Vol 1 A, p.238 and gives the names of Ghiyath al-Din Mahmud, Barbak al-Dunya wa al-Din (Abu Muzaffar Barbak) Shua Sultan (ruler of Mymensingh and Sylhet, son of Humayan Shah). Mitchiner attributes the coin to Chittagong under the Arakanese governor Chandila Raza (Thandala Shah) as, in 1542 (AH949), the Arakanese king Min Bin conquered Chittagong for the second time and reportedly appointed him as governor. Subject to 5% tax on Hammer Price in addition to 20% VAT on Buyer's Premium.

Basiliscus commanded the army for an invasion of the Vandal Kingdom in 468, which was defeated at the Battle of Cape Bon. There were accusations at the time that Basiliscus was bribed by Aspar, the magister militum; many historians dismiss this, instead concluding that Basiliscus was either incompetent or foolish for accepting Vandal King Gaiseric's offer of a truce, which the latter used to construct fireships. Basiliscus's defeat cost the Eastern Empire 130,000 pounds (59,000 kg) of gold, causing the empire to hover above bankruptcy for 30 years. When Basiliscus returned to Constantinople, he sought refuge in the Church of St. Sophia. His sister, Empress Verina, secured him a pardon and he left the church to retire in Neapolis.
