Kumaon, Almora, AE Falus, 11.20g, undated, in the name of Rana Bahadur Shah of Nepal (1777-99), shri maharaja rana bahadur shah bahadur, rev. falus zarb almorah (RGV 1357), good fine, rare Almora was invaded and conquered by the Gorkhas in 1790. A year or so later, most of the Nepalese army had to return to Nepal because of a threat from the Chinese, leaving only a small garrison behind. The Almora mint opened some time in the 1790s and this coin would have been struck during this period. These early coins follow the weight standard of the Bahadur Shahi of Nepal, with the Falus weighing over 10g. After the final Nepalese conquest of Garhwal the weight standard was reduced until a standard copper coin weighed about 5g. At this weight they corresponded to the Garhwali Taca and it is thought that both types circulated together. Lot 761

Sikkim (1883-85), AE Paisas (5), different varieties, VS 1940; 1941 (2); 1942; date not visible, Sri Sri Sri Sikimapati Maharaj, rev. Sri Sri Sri Sikima Sarkara, (KM. 1; 2; 3.1), crude fine to very fine, all scarce (5) There was no local coinage in Sikkim until the arrival of a number of Nepalese traders in the late 19th century. The Nepalese Pradhan brothers acquired some land and also the right to mine copper. Some of this copper they wished to use for striking coins which they hoped they could use for trade with Nepal and the Darjeeling area. The coins, often poorly struck, are similar to contemporary Nepalese copper coins, except for the Sikkim legend. They were struck between 1883 and 1885. The dies bore dates but few of the coins show the date clearly. Parts of a date can be seen on a couple of the present coins. The weights of the issues vary between 4 and 6g. Some coins have the obverse legend in 3 lines, others in 4 lines. This coin issue was not a success as neither the British nor the Nepalese allowed their circulation within their respective jurisdictions. provenance The Nicholas Rhodes Collection, Spink, 27th September 2016, lot 457 - £400 Subject to 20% VAT on Buyer's Premium. For more information please view Terms and Conditions for Buyers.

Sirmur, Girvan Yuddha (1806-15), AE Paisas (2), 17.34; 17.00g, Nahan mint, AH 1227, VS 69 (AD 1812), shri maharajah girban judah shah bikram bahadur, rev. zarb nahan 1227 sambat 69 (in Nagari numerals) (RGV. 1409; KM. C21), about very fine and fine, with clear legends, scarce (2) provenance The Nicholas Rhodes Collection, Spink, 27th September 2016, lot 459 - The Nepalese armies reached in Sirmur in 1806 and remained in control until 1815, when the British annexed the state. Little is known about the Nepalese administration of Sirmur and there appear to be no records about the striking or circulation of coinage within the territory, apart from the coins themselves, which remain very scarce. The weight standard of this issue is very different from that used by the Nepalese in either Garhwal or Almora. The samvat date on this issue 769 stands for VS 1869. Subject to 20% VAT on Buyer's Premium. For more information please view Terms and Conditions for Buyers.

Estimate

"struck at Bombay in auspicious 5th regnal year of the English rulers", (Pr. 27; Stevens 1.26; KM 148.2), small die crack and removed from a mount, otherwise with some toning, very fine, in NGC holder, graded AU Details, mount removed (Cert. #6321149-003) The East India Company decided to issue their own coinage from their new territory of Bombay in 1672. However, they soon discovered that only base metal coins of European appearance were accepted in trade. Silver and gold coins were circulated from the Mughal mints. Therefore it was decided to strike some Rupees in the Indian style, and these appeared in the late 17th century in the names of James II and William & Mary. They are very rare, as it proved to be a short-lived enterprise that the Emperor Aurangzeb soon terminated. Subject to 20% VAT on Buyer's Premium.
