(g) Princely States, Kashmir, Dogra Rajas, Ranbir Singh (1857-1885), gold Nazarana or Nisar 'Ceremonial' coin, 1.40g, Srinagar, date off flan, in style of third silver series reduced weight Rupees (Y.#16b), leaf mark divides Persian legend, Raghanatha Ji Saha'i zarb Srinagar, with J.H.S (Jesus Hominum Salvator) below (mostly off flan), rev. part of Takari legend Raghanatha Ji Saha Jarava Srinagara (date) (KM. Y#22 var; see also ONS Newsletter no. 125, July - August 1990, Stan Goron, p. 6, and no. 128, March - May 1991, "The Gold 1/4 Mohur of the Ranbir Singh of Kashmir: some further comments", N. G. Rhodes, p. 10), very rare, unrecorded at this weight, uncirculated Provenance The Shepherd Collection of Indian States and Presidency Coinage Although other known coins of this type are of a heavier weight, if this coin was intended for a ceremonial purpose, such as Nazarana or Nisar donation /distribution, then it's weight would not necessarily have had to conform to an exact fraction of a Mohur. In fact, no Mohurs are known for Ranbir Singh, and the Third Series of silver Rupees were struck at a weight between 6.6 and 6.8g. Other identical coins are also offered in this auction, and it is notable that, although they all appear to have been struck from the same obverse die, there are at least two different reverse dies in the group. The date, where visible, is always VS193- (either a deliberate omission of the last digit, or as N. Rhodes suggests (ONS 128 -see above) intended to represent VS 1932 = 1875). When Rhodes discussed these coins in 1991 only around ten were known. For previously offered similar coins see: The Michael Sarnfors Collection of Indian Coins (part 1), Baldwins et al. (g) Princely States, Kashmir, Dogra Rajas, Ranbir Singh (1857-1885), gold Nazarana or Nisar 'Ceremonial' coin, 1.38g, Srinagar, date off flan, in style of third silver series reduced weight Rupees (Y.#16b), leaf mark divides Persian legend, Raghanatha Ji Saha'i zarb Srinagar, with J.H.S (Jesus Hominum Salvator) below (mostly off flan), rev. part of Takari legend Raghanatha Ji Saha Jarava Srinagara (date) (KM. Y#22 var. See also ONS Newsletter no. 125, July - August 1990, Stan Goron, p. 6, and no. 128, March - May 1991, "The Gold 1/4 Mohur of the Ranbir Singh of Kashmir: some further comments", N. G. Rhodes, p. 10), very rare, unrecorded at this weight, uncirculated Provenance The Shepherd Collection of Indian States and Presidency Coinage Although other known coins of this type are of a heavier weight, if this coin was intended for a ceremonial purpose, such as Nazarana or Nisar donation /distribution, then it's weight would not necessarily have had to conform to an exact fraction of a Mohur. In fact, no Mohurs are known for Ranbir Singh, and the Third Series of silver Rupees were struck at a weight between 6.6 and 6.8g. Other identical coins are also offered in this auction, and it is notable that, although they all appear to have been struck from the same obverse die, there are at least two different reverse dies in the group. The date, where visible, is always VS193- (either a deliberate omission of the last digit, or as N. Rhodes suggests (ONS 128 -see above) intended to represent VS 1932 = 1875). When Rhodes discussed these coins in 1991 only around ten were known. For previously offered similar coins see: The Michael Sarnfors Collection of Indian Coins (part 1), Baldwins et al. (x) Atabeg & early Salghurid (c.12th century), gold Dinars (7) and base gold Dinars (2), including issues of Mankubars (1130-39) and Sunqur (1148-61), some naming caliph Muqtafi and Seljuk ruler Sinjar (1118-1157) as overlord, several with Salghurid tamgha (cf. MWI.1153, 1157; Album 1923, 1925), only a small portion of most marginal legends visible, generally very fine to extremely fine (9) Provenance Spink, Auction 5014, 28 September 2005, lot 1041 [part] Following the disintegration of the Seljuk Empire, much of Persia became controlled by provincial governors, many of whom had previously been in service under the Seljuks, or were related to them. They were known as Atabegs, and often struck coins showing nominal allegiance to their Seljuk overlords. This, and the subsequent three lots, constitutes one group of dinars, struck in S.W. Iran by the Atabegs of Fars, and their successors, the Salghurids. An under-researched and scarce series, with many unrecorded types, they represent an interesting study group. Lot 2648

Tibet, Anonymous, Vartula Tangka, (issued 1763 or 1764 or 1785), the syllable "dza" in Vartula-script repeated eight times on both sides, with eight-spoked wheel in centre, rev. the syllable "dza" in Vartula-script repeated eight times on both sides, with eight-spoked wheel in centre, 26mm, 5.53g (KM YC5.2; YZM 248), with striking softness and therefore resulting flatness, with a uniform and darkly toned surfaces, about fine, a scarce early Tibetan denomination and thus highly sought after. Provenance Purchased, Baldwin's [with envelope]. On both sides the inscription represents eight times the syllable "dza" in Vartula-script (equivalent to the syllable "ja" in Sanskrit). "ja" may be short for jaya (victorious). Together with the wheel with eight spokes in the centre the meaning would be "victorious wheel", referring to the teaching of the Buddha or more specifically to the dharma cakra (Tibetan chos 'khor), the wheel of religion which according to Buddhist tradition was set in motion by Buddha in the deer park of Sarnath, near Varanasi (Benares). Chinese sources report that the first coins were struck in Tibet in 1763/4 and in 1785 and this coin has been been tentatively attributed to the years 1763/4, 1785 or to the early 19th century (Martynov, A. S.: "O pervych chekankakh monety v Tibete" Kratkie Soobshcheniia Akademii Nauk SSSR, Institut Narodov Azii, no. 69, Moscow, 1965, p. 197-202). Subject to 20% VAT on Buyer's Premium.
