One of the most iconic and enduring representations of Elizabeth II, Annigoni's portrait was adapted by the leading British security printers for use on banknotes throughout the Commonwealth. Distinguished from the closely related Bradbury Wilkinson "Portrait 9a", used on the banknotes of the Isle of Man, Malta, Rhodesia, Trinidad and Tobago, and Seychelles, by the sharply defined shading beneath the Queen's temple and the simplified rendering of the braid on her cloak. Ford Motor Company of Canada, 6 shares, Walkerville (now Windsor), Ontario, 1906, number 88, issued to Henry Ford, Sign. Henry Ford (1863-1947) three times, once as president, second on the stub and a third on the back transfer. Henry Ford (1863-1947) was one of America's greatest automobile manufacturers. He started with very little in the way of resources, but managed to succeed in an industry where most of his peers were forced to give up control of their pioneering automotive enterprises to outside stock holders. In 1903, when Ford Motor Company of Michigan was founded, Henry Ford found himself in exactly that position. John Gray and ten other local businessmen and women initially controlled the company, with Gray as president. Because they wanted to manufacture and sell their cars on both sides of the U.S. and the Canadian border, a parallel company was set up in Canada and named the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited. It was almost as highly capitalized as the American company. In the early 1900s, the automobile industry was at a very formative stage. Electric vehicles predominated in the cities, and if their batteries could only be improved, electrics would be the wave of the future. Thomas Edison went to work on that problem, while Ford took the opposite tack. Ford, along with others, improved the gasoline powered automobiles and made them more practical. As Ford became more and more successful, he was able to gain control of his own companies, and by 1906 was president of both Ford Motor Company of Michigan and Ford Motor Company of Canada. He quickly adopted a strategy that would lead to one of the greatest manufacturing successes of all time: the Model T. While other automotive pioneers wanted to offer highly diversified product lines and sell more expensive cars, Henry Ford strove to develop a single model that could be manufactured efficiently and sold at a price that everyone could afford. Ford's theory worked brilliantly, right up to the early 1920s. Of the fewer than 20 known Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited certificates signed by Ford, our example is the only one issued to him and signed by him as president, a second time on the back, and a third time on the stub. To the best of our knowledge, there are no early Ford Motor Company of Michigan certificates available outside of the Henry Ford Museum Collection. This is the ultimate stock certificate for any advanced collection of the shares of the companies of great American capitalists issued to and signed by their founders. Lot 795

Asylum Company, Philadelphia, United States, 1 Share, 9th October 1794, number 165, original Company certificate, issued to John Nicholson and signed by Robert Morris and James Duncan, printed by Zachariah Poulson on white laid paper, 40.5 x 25 cm, page folded over, three pages of text including an agreement on dividends and an agreement on the operations of the company, The Asylum Company was established by an agreement signed on April 23, 1794 between Robert Morris and John Nicholson on the one part and Omar Talon Louis, Viscomte de Noailles, brother in law of Lafayette, on the second part. As originally conceived, this company was to procure enough land in Luzerne, Columbia, Schuylkill and Cumberland counties to settle a large number of refugees from France fleeing from that country after the overthrow of the monarchy in 1792. The original document called for 200,000 acres; ultimately a million acres were purchased. Although they started with high hopes, the project never got off the ground. The French showed no disposition to leave France, even when confronted with the prospect of being guillotined. Those who did come to America vastly preferred the salons of Philadelphia to sweating over a plow in four backwater Pennsylvania counties. A town, Asylum, was founded in 1795 but ceased to grow after 1796. By that time Robespierre and the Terror had been overthrown and the Directory had issued a blanket pardon to most former aristocrats. Asylum became a ghost town after 1806 but the company's tangled affairs continued under a new charter well into the 19th century. This has historically been among the rarest of 18th century certificates. extremely fine, rare Subject to 20% VAT on Buyer's Premium.
