As one of Persia's major trading hubs, Tabriz became a critical centre for commerce, positioned strategically along the Silk Road and near both the Ottoman and Russian Empires. Its prominence made it an ideal location for the Imperial Bank of Persia. Tabriz, along with Bushire, were the first branches to open in April 1890, just four months after the establishment of the bank's headquarters in Tehran in December 1889. This 20 Tomans note is characterized by its red, green, and purple colours, with the obverse displaying Persian text and a portrait of Nasser al-Din Qajar in military uniform and fez. "11th October 1927" is printed between the centre and the margin of the note, and "Payable at Tabriz only" is in the lower centre margin. The reverse features English text alongside a coat of arms adorned with a Kiani crown, sun, lion, and sword. A watermark replicates this coat of arms. Black serial numbers with split prefix letters "E/D 043,077" are displayed near each corner. The note was printed by Bradbury Wilkinson & Co. (Pick 15, BNB 117b25), in PMG holder 12 NET Fine, severed and reattached with tape. Subject to 5% tax on Hammer Price in addition to 20% VAT on Buyer's Premium.

Lot 360

(x) Keeling Cocos Islands, [Top Pop] 5 Rupees, 1897, manuscript serial number 62, the Clunies-Ross family settled on the Cocos (Keeling) Islands, an Indian Ocean archipelago, in 1827. They ruled these uninhabited islands as a private domain until 1978, initially under terra nullius and later under British (1857-1955) and Australian (1955-1978) sovereignty. Often recognized as the "King of the Cocos Islands," the family played a crucial role in shaping the islands' history. John Clunies-Ross, a Scottish merchant, arrived in 1825 and moved his family to one of the islands in 1827. He established a successful business by planting coconut palms and employing Malay workers for copra harvesting. Despite British annexation in 1857, the islands maintained their autonomy. John George Clunies-Ross succeeded his father, earning the title of Tuan Pandai for his medical knowledge. Born in the Cocos Islands, he studied engineering in Scotland and became superintendent in 1871. In 1886, Queen Victoria granted perpetual ownership of the islands to the Clunies-Ross family. The islands became part of the Straits Settlements in 1903, but ownership persisted unchanged. George Clunies-Ross's death in 1910 marked the end of the family's direct rule. The banknote presented today belongs to the 3rd issue (1897). This series features handwritten control numbers and printed serial numbers, all signed by King G. Clunies Ross. Notably, these notes represent the first instance of paper currency on the islands, (Pick S122, KNB16), in PMG holder 45 Choice Extremely Fine, a low serial number and exceptional grade for type. At time of cataloguing no other examples of the 5 rupee recorded on Track and Price and the only note graded on PMG Census.
