Lot 155

German or Italian. Receiving the Infant Jesus. Plaque. Bronze, 56 x 102mm, 16th-17th Century. The Virgin holding the Infant Jesus, figure holding palm frond behind, clergy and bishop before, loin-clothed young man at left, seated facing figure at top, A.C.C. / C.C.C. on hatted and tasseled shield below, cherubim at sides. Pierced. A Fine old cast.

Estimate

$200 to $300

Lot 156

Germany. Ecce Homo. Bronze plaque cast after an early 17th Century model. 85 x 115mm. Christ at center wearing a short perizonium and cloak, His hands bound behind, flanked by a turbaned High Priest and a man wearing a wide-brimmed hat and holding the rope; a group of figures gathered in an archway in the background. Cf. Bange 7048. Soldermark on back, otherwise Extremely Fine.

Estimate

$200 to $300

Lot 157

Netherlands. Diana and Actaeon. Rectangular plaquette. Bronze, 128 x 97mm, 1610. Diana bathing in a spring with the help of her escort of nymphs, the young hunter Actaeon unwittingly spies them from behind a tree at the right. Cf. Weber 974 (lead example in the Museo Nazionale del Bargello, Florence; iron example Augsburg Museum). This is apparently the only reported example in bronze. An Extremely Fine later cast.

Estimate
$400 to $500

Lot 158

Spain. Unknown Master, Rioja region, commissioned by a noble family with ties to the cult of Santo Domingo de la Calzada. Nativity. Devotional Pax Board, 16th Century. Bronze relief, 103.5 x 144mm, with a high concentration of copper typical of contemporary examples. Radiant Madonna and San Jose flank the Infant Christ at center, an angel above. A hen and a rooster sit atop the side columns, small facing head inside either column; BENEDITVS.FR ("Blessed Brother") incuse above; in the tympanum is the facing figure of Santo Domingo holding the Bible and staff; .S.TO - DOM to the left and right. Armorials at the base of the columns, raised cross at center, colonnade behind. Reverse engraved with a chased grille-pattern (possible the testing of an early goldsmith's tool). There are three known versions of this pax. The first version, the plaquette offered here, was likely commissioned or related to Don Alfonso de Castilla Zuñiga while in the service of the Bishop of Calahorra and La Calzada, 1523-1541. There are two aftercasts of the original design, both based on molds taken from earlier design and reworked; one of which repurposed for other commissions, while the other was serially produced for broad distribution and features neither inscriptions nor armorials. Bergbauer/Chedeau, 1996, p.85, 52; Grande, Margarita Pérez (1985), Plateria de la Colegiata de Talavera de la Reina, Diputación Provincial de Toledo, p.90, fig. 8; Troncavini, Attilio: antiqua.mi.it/Troncavini_Placchette_gen16.html. A Rare and Very Fine contemporary example. Ex David Abbate Collection.

Importing and Exporting Company of Georgia. Certificate for 10 Shares at $1,000 each, Savannah, June 12, 1863. No. 525. Signed by G.B. Lamar as president. Gazaway Bugg Lamar (1798-1874), cotton and shipping merchant, slave owner, blockade runner and steamboat pioneer, was the first person to use a prefabricated iron steamboat on local rivers. As General Sherman's troops approached Savannah in December 1864, Lamar took President Lincoln's loyalty oath in return for the promise that all his property rights would be restored - a high proportion of cotton in the city seized by Sherman belonged to Lamar. After the war, Lamar was arrested as a suspect in the assassination of Lincoln and held in Washington, D.C. for three months. Upon returning to Savannah, he tried to reclaim unsuccessfully his cotton from warehouses in Georgia and Florida. He was arrested and convicted by a Reconstruction military court of attempting to take government property and bribing a government official. The sentence was commuted by President Andrew Johnson shortly before his term ended. Lamar spent years trying to get compensation for his confiscated cotton, finally receiving a government settlement of $579,343.71 in 1874. He died six months later in Brooklyn, NY. Steamship top center, on the left, a sailor seated on a dock. Small edge nip lower right. Good Fine and Rare.
