MiscellaneousPhotosHong Kong1899 A hardcover photo album (3/4 Leather Binding) of Happy Valley, Hong Kong, containing seventeen photos, one photo per page. It records precious images of Happy Valley from over 130 years ago. The first photo in the album shows the huge circular pool that once existed there, a rare sight in early Happy Valley photos. Another photo shows that, apart from the main grandstand on the far right, the other two levels of the grandstand were constructed of grass and wood. Another photo shows the British Scottish bagpipes playing, adding a festive atmosphere to the horse racing event. In 1889, besides the racecourse buildings, Happy Valley only had the village of Wong Nai Chung at the foot of the hill; there were no buildings on the hillside. Compared to today, it's a world of difference. Collecting old photographs and comparing the past and present is one of the greatest pleasures. The photographs vary in size, ranging from 15.7 x 21 cm to 21.2 x 29.2 cm, while the album size is 24 x 32.7 cm. Please preview.
